Chargers women's volleyball exhibition recap

The Camosun College Chargers women's volleyball team spent four days in Olympia, Washington (Sept. 6-9) to kick off the 2012-13 season and work in some early season exhibition play during their annual retreat.

"The purpose of the weekend was to spend time together as a team," said Chargers Head Coach Chris Dahl. "The opportunity to play volleyball this early in the season was an added bonus."

Camosun joined two other squads from Canada (Simon Fraser University and Columbia Bible College) and three from the US (Northwest University, Lewis and Clark College and Evergreen) to compete in the 2012 Red Lion Evergreen Invitational, hosted by Evergreen State College.

"We played four different programs from the NAIA and NCAA, put out numerous lineup combinations, managed some early season injuries... it was a great opportunity to move closer to being able to put our thumb on what we have in the program for 2012-13," said Coach Dahl.
